Johannes Gutenberg-Universität Mainz (JGU), represented by its president, Professor Georg Krausch, expresses its full support for the European Charter for Researchers and Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers.

Many aspects of the Charter and Code are already respected and implemented at JGU. By endorsing their principles, JGU acknowledges the importance of the Charter and Codex in contributing to the attractiveness of research careers in the European Research Area and in creating excellent conditions for research at its own institution.

The development of a Human Research Strategy for Researchers is a core element of the organizational development of JGU. The Charter and Code were signed by the German Rector's Conference (HRK) in 2005, and as a member of the HRK, JGU also endorses the Charter and Code, and is dedicated to their full implementation.
